TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR.

COLUMBUS, MISSISSIPPI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1905.

PRICE: FIVE CENTS

OPENED WEDNESDAY.

Twenty-first Annual Session of Industrial Institute & College.

After having been postponed twice on account of the yellow fever epidemic, which for several months past has raged at many points throughout the South, the opening of the twenty-first annual session of the Industrial Institute and College will occur next Wednesday, November 1st. According to the school calendar the session was to have opened on September 20th, but on account of the yellow fever the opening was postponed by the State Board of Health to October 17th, and before that date arrived the fever situation became so serious that it was necessary to again postpone the opening, and November 1st was the date finally selected for the event.

The yellow fever epidemic is now practically a thing of the past, and students can come from nearly every point in the State without any fear of any incursion of the dreaded malady. There are a few points in South Mississippi where isolated cases of fever still exist, and, of course, no young lady from any of these places or from any which is in the remotest degree considered dangerous will be allowed to come to Columbus, and only those bearing unquestionable proof of good health will be permitted to enter the college.

Notwithstanding the fact that the opening of the school has been so long delayed the coming session promises to be one of the most prosperous in the history of the institution. The number of students will be as large or larger than that of any former year, and the young ladies, having had such a long vacation, will be in fine condition to enter upon their studies with unusual zest and vigor. President Kincannon will do all in his power to encourage the students to study industriously in order that the time that has been lost may be made up, and in this effort will receive conscientious and painstaking assistance from the various members of the faculty, all of whom are faithful and efficient workers who have the best interests of the college at heart.

Invited Party.

A merry party of young people occupied the boxes at the Columbus Theatre Tuesday night on which occasion Frank Dudley and company presented "For Love and Honor," and at the conclusion of the performance enjoyed a dainty supper at the Kandy Kitchen on South Market street. The party included Misses Gladys Hirschman, Cornelia Aldridge, Fannie Cady, Miriam Wilkinson, Vesta Wood, Willie May Parker, Nettie Harrison, Sue Foote, Lucile Reeves, Celeste Benoit, Messrs. Charlie Alexander, Fred Pope, Hunter Walker, Albert Hirschman, Jonathan Richardson, William Harris, Earl Ecken, Sidney Loeb, Jack Aldridge and Lonnie Lincoln.

Rev. J. B. Oakley and family leave tomorrow for Marshall, Texas, which city will be their future home, Mr. Oakley having accepted a call to the Cumberland Presbyterian church in that city.

Miss Emmie Patty, of Macon, has been spending the past week in the city as the guest of Miss Sallie Foote.

The Frank Dudley Company.

The Frank Dudley Company closed a week's engagement at the Columbus Theatre last night, having played to large audiences every night throughout the week. That Mr. Dudley is an exceptionally good actor there can be no doubt, and if he will only display good judgement and secure some able and experienced manager to direct his tours his future is assured. Miss Helen Aubrey, who joined the company here, and who played the leading female roles during the latter half of the engagement, is, perhaps, one of the best actresses ever seen here with a repertoire organization, and her appearance added not only to the artistic effect of the plays produced but helped to swell the crowds, the receipts having been larger after she joined the company than any previous night.

It is more than likely that Mr. Dudley will appear here again later in the season. As he is making arrangements to replace several of his people his company will be stronger than the one at present supporting him.

Suzanne Santje in "Sowing the Wind."

"Sowing the Wind," a romantic drama in four acts by Sidney Grundy, which received its first presentation in this country at the Empire Theatre, New York, where it ran for an entire season, will be seen here on Thursday night at the Columbus Theatre, with Miss Suzanne Santje in the stellar role of Rosamond. The story of "Sowing the Wind" concerns the love affairs of an adopted son, Ned Annesley, and a young actress. The central theme, of course, in this charming love story, and the influence brought to bear upon Ned Annesley by his adopted father in an endeavor to part the young lovers, serves as the means for the introduction of exceptionally strong scenes between the parties concerned. Ned Annesley, however, through it all, being deeply in love with Rosamond, insists upon marrying her, and after considerable tumult, trials, tribulations and the final winning of his father's consent, he succeeds in marrying the girl of his choice. It is a pretty story, containing its pathetic side as well as its humorous episodes, and it is exceedingly well handled by Sydney Grundy. The scenes of the play are laid in England in the early part of the nineteenth century which gives opportunity for color and picturesque stage settings. The denouement of the third act is a thrilling climax in which is brought to light the fact that Rosamond is none other than the daughter of Brabazon, Ned's adopted father, and his cheerful consent is given to the betrothal of the young couple, and the play ends happily for all concerned. Miss Santje, who will enact the role of Rosamond, is a young woman of great beauty, and possesses unusual histrionic ability. Edward R. Mawson will essay the part of Brabazon, and the cast otherwise will be strong, careful selections having been made by Manager Al. S. Roth of such players whose abilities would qualify them to properly bring out the good points of Mr. Grundy's characters in the play.

Miss Virginia Sanders, of Starkville, was a visitor to the fair last week. Miss Sanders was for several years a student of the Industrial Institute and College, and has many friends here who are always glad to welcome her to the city.

THE FIFTH ANNUAL FAIR IS ALL OVER

Exhibition Brought Large Crowd Here. The Floral Parade Having Attracted a Great Deal of Attention.

The fifth annual exhibition of the Mississippi and West Alabama Fair Association closed yesterday, and most of the visitors who came here to see the fair have returned to their homes. There was a rather small number of people present on Tuesday, the opening day of the fair, but the crowd increased on Wednesday, the floral parade, which took place on Wednesday afternoon, having proven a strong drawing card. This parade was really one of the most attractive features of the fair, and contained not only some beautiful private equipages, but quite a number of artistically decorated floats, which were entered by several of the prominent business houses of the city.

The first vehicle appearing in the parade was a handsome double surrey which was entered by Mr. E. S. Moore, and in which there were seated his daughter, Miss Alice and Miss Augusta Prowell. Pink and white were the colors used in the decorations of this vehicle, which presented a beautiful appearance.

The second equipage in the parade was another double surrey, which was entered by Miss Ella Sherrod, and in which there were seated Misses Mamie, Sue Sherrod and Nettie Harrison. This carriage was decorated in white and yellow, the two colors being combined with most pleasing effect.

Following Miss Sherrod's carriage came the beautiful pony trap entered by Mr. Henry Gunter, which called forth much admiration on account of the unusually beautiful appearance which it presented. The trap was decorated in white and heliotrope, and the color scheme was carried out in the costumes of its occupants, Misses Fannie Pulliam Dismukes and Lillian Gunter, both of whom wore snow white gowns with white and heliotrope picture hats.

Following the vehicle described above came another pony cart entered and occupied by Mesdames W. O. Peck and Louis Divilbiss. This vehicle was decorated in pink and white, and attracted much favorable comment.

The last private equipage in the floral parade was a pony trap occupied by Misses Mary McClure and Adelle Leigh. This trap was tastefully decorated and presented a most artistic appearance.

Following the private equipages came the floats advertising various business houses. The first float was that entered by the Sherrod Hardware, and was extremely novel and unique in design. The float represented a kitchen scene, and there was a stove with fire lighted, at which a cook with apron and cap of spotless white presided. The stove which was on the float is to be given away by the Sherrod Hardware Co., and this fact was painted in large letters upon a streamer which adorned the float.

The second float in the parade was entered by the Columbus Clothing Co., and represented the ship in which Christopher Columbus sailed across the ocean when he discovered America. The ship was painted in black and the colors of the firm, and on a streamer there were printed the words, "Always seeking new values for our customers."

The last float in the parade was that entered by Gunter Bros., furniture dealers, and represented a handsomely fixed up bed chamber, with a full suit of the most modern furniture.

Mrs. T. W. Criger and Miss Kate Ervin, of Crawford, and Miss Virginia Saunders, of Starkville, were the judges in the floral parade, and at its conclusion prizes were awarded as follows:

Double turnout: first prize, Miss Ella Sherrod; second prize, Mr. E. S. Moore.

Best single turnout: Mr. H. H. Gunter, first prize; Mesdames Peck and Divilbiss, second prize.

Best decorated float: Columbus Clothing Co., first prize; Sherrod Hardware Co., second prize.

The floral parade was followed by the gentlemen's road race, which proved to be another very interesting feature of the day's program. This was a half-mile heat, best two in three, and there were ten entries. "Mystic Tie," driven by Mr. Joe Mahon, won the race with ease, having come out several lengths ahead of "Robert Nutwood," the horse which won second place, driven by Mr. Eugene Egger.

Thursday was devoted principally to the races and to awarding premiums in the various departments, while Friday brought the football contest representing Auburn University and the A. and M. College, the fair having come to a close yesterday afternoon, when a fine racing program was presented.

In addition to the regular program there were two special features each afternoon, "Maximus," the bull wrestler, having given an exhibition at 2 P. M., and "Young Sandow," the man with the iron jaw, having made his famous slide for life at 4 P. M. The Second Regiment Band, of Meridian, which is under the direction of Prof. Carl Leake, furnished the music throughout the progress of the fair, and a fine musical program was rendered each evening.

Heretofore it has been the custom of THE DISPATCH to publish a list of the premiums awarded in the various departments, but owing to the fact that the office was being moved last week, it was found impossible to publish the list this year.

The annual account of Georgia Littlejohn, guardian of J. B. and T. S. Littlejohn, was allowed.

Special sale of men's trousers at Kaufman's this week.

AUBURN TEAM WINS

A. and M. Boys Failed to Score in Football Contest Friday.

One of the largest crowds that visited the fair grounds any day last week assembled there Friday afternoon to witness the football contest between teams representing the A. and M. College at Starkville and Auburn University at Auburn, Ala. It was an ideal day for a football game. The atmosphere was cool and crisp, and while the clouds which overhung the skies, were sufficiently dense to obscure the sun, there was not the faintest suspicion of rain nor was there enough dampness in the air to make the day disagreeable.

Both teams arrived at the fair grounds about half an hour before the time the game began, which was punctuated at three o'clock, and all the members of both teams were cheered as they entered the field. To all appearances the two teams were pretty evenly matched, but as soon as the game began it was evident that the Alabamians were the best players, and the result of the game, which was eighteen to nothing in their favor, surprised no one. While the Mississippians failed to score it cannot be truthfully said that they put up a bad game, for they played hard from start to finish, and Gully who played left half back, did some brilliant work. He is fleet footed and has a quick eye, and duplicated the brilliant record which he made when his team played the University of Alabama here last year. The Auburn team also has a fine half back in Foy, who made some exceedingly brilliant plays. It seems a little singular that the principal strength of the two opposing teams lays at the same point, but such is the case, and the fact was remarked on by many of the spectators who were present.

Mr. Montgomery, of the A. & M. College, officiated as referee and Mr. Nash Broyles, of this city, as coach, while Maj. Irvin Sessums, of the A. & M. College, was the official time keeper. The following was the lineup of the two teams:

A. & M. C.	POSITION	AUBURN
Wooten	Center	Hughes
Hull	Right Guard	Moon
Thompson	Left Guard	Penton
Cutrer	Right Tackle	Jones
Duncan	Right End	Patterson, J.
DeBaum	Left End	Patterson, H.
McGeorge	Quarter Back	Perkins
Reed	Full Back	Lally
McIntosh	Right H. Back	Neill

In noting Miss Charlie Garner's introduction to the Woman's Club of Atlanta at a recent meeting, the Constitution has the following graceful compliment to her: Mrs. Charles Garner, of Columbus, Miss., was introduced by Mrs. McCabe as a prominent Mississippi club woman, poetess and philanthropist. She has been one of the traveling secretaries of the children's work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and described her efforts among the children of the street in Bridgeport, Conn., and Birmingham, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Boyd, of Dunbar, were visitors to the fair last week, having been guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Owen during their stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Turner and Miss Kizzie Hairston, of Crawford, were visitors to the fair last week.
